VOL. XXXVIII NO 28 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, FEBRUARY 26, 1920 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

WOODROW

Mrs. J. Luther McNeill still continues very sick.

Mrs. Foley Morrison and children have been quite sick but are better.

James N. White, who spent the winter in Florida, has returned home. Also his son. Page White, who has been attending school at Buckhannon is at home to spend a short time after a spell of flu followed by pneumonia.

Charles Galford, of Edray, was visiting relatives here a few days ago.

Forrest Kellison, of Buckeye, spent Saturday night and Sunday in this part.

John Galford and son Andrew were at Marlinton on business recently.

Frank Jordan spent a few days with his family. He has a position at Slaty Fork with the W. Va. Spruce Lumber Co.

W. E. Baxter was at Marlinton on business recently.

Senator E. Hough and son of Wellsburg, were here on business.

Williams & Pifer bas bought S. D. McClure's timber and expect to operate the coming summer.

Dick Smith, the veteran hunter, who found it necessary to give up his business in town in order to devote his whole time to the profitable business of trapping, came on to a veritable mine of fur the other day. He was chasing a fox, and noticed a place where the snow appeared to have melted away. He knew the sign at once. Digging away the stones and earth he opened a den where a whole colony of skunks were hibernating. The animals were so stupid that he took them out one by one and gave them painless death before they knew they had been disturbed. There were a baker's dozen of them, most of them jet black, and each in prime condition. The day's work will net over a hundred dollars.

Porter Kellison of Swago, asks for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Pocahontas county. He is native born and a farmer by occupation. He started poor, but by industry and handling his business well he has become a man of affairs. If he ever lacks anything of making a sheriff it will be too few votes. He has never sought public office before, though the school board job has been inflicted on him a number of times. He always did his duty as he saw it without fear or favor.

Our good old colored friend William Alexander Wilson paid us a visit Tuesday morning. At the county fair last fall he carried off the prize for the best bunch of clover hay. This clover was grown on newly cleared land in the flat woods, land considered practically worthless a few decades ago. The clover grew so long and heavy that it was too thick to be cut by a machine and scythes had to be used.

Beaver Creek—The flu is raging in the neighborhood again.—Kennie Underwood and family are able to be out again after an attack of flu.—Mrs. Wallace Underwood is able to out again after an illness of Lagrippe. Also the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Dency Sharp is improving nicely from whooping cough and pneumonia.—Mrs Kate Syms has closed her school on account of the flu.—Walter Perkins, from Georgia, is visiting his sister, Mrs. P. M. Underwood.

A friend of ours from Cheat Bridge calls our attention to the fact that we inadvertantly left out the name of Sullivan Kelley in the list of heroes from Pocahontas county who made the supreme sacrifice, published two weeks ago. Private Sullivan Kelley was the son of Benjamin Kelley of Duabin. Did we miss any others?

The town of Lewisburg has opened a community house, and dedicated it to the memory of the John A. Preston. This is the first place in West Virginia to take this advanced step. There are others which will do likewise.

Clarence Shinaberry of Cloverlick, was a visitor at this office on Tuesday. During the late war he saw eighteen months of military service, three months in America, eight in France and seven in Germany. Though in battle a number of times he escaped without a scratch. He got home last August.

URIAH HEVENER

Uriah Hevener, aged 32 years, died at the Marlinton Hospital on Sunday afternoon, February 22, 1920, of gangrenous lungs following a severe attack of influenza and pneumonia. For more than a week he had been very ill at his home near Boyer, and surgical operation becoming necessary he was brought to Marlinton Sunday morning.

Mr. Hevener was one of the prominent and influential citizens of the county, and few men will be more greatly missed. He was a progressive farmer on a big scale, owning the second largest farm in the county.

Mr Hevener is survived by his wife, a daughter of H. C. Skaggs, of Lewisburg, and their three little children: his mother, and his half brother, John R. Hevener; and three half sisters, Mrs. June Summerson, and Mrs. H. H. Slaven, of Virginia, and Mrs. Lou Post of Upshur county.

His body was buried with Masonic rites on his farm, beside the grave of his father on Tuesday, services being conducted by his pastor, Rev. Monroe, of the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Hevener was the son of the late Uriah Hevener, his mother before marriage being Miss Nancy McLaughlin. At the death of his father, though young in years, he took over the management of a large estate, and with remarkable judgment and foresight was making a great success.

Like his father, Mr. Hevener was a friend to every one in distress or in need of assistance, and the deserving man was never turned away empty handed. He was public spirited to a remarkable degree, and any movement toward the betterment of church, roads, schools and whatever else was a benefit to the community had his unstinted support.

GONE TO REST

In kind remembrance of Mrs. Caroline Collins, who died at Hosterman, on Tuesday February 10, aged 78 years, her health had been failing she suffered with heart trouble, and her death was not unexpected, but she has gone to that Happy Home Above where pleasure never dies. He body was laid to rest in the Hosterman graveyard, on Wednesday Feb. 11th. The funeral services was conducted by Rev. W. M. Pugh.

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. Yea, saith the Spirit that they may rest from their labors.

B. E. S.

Governor Wm. A. McCorkle, of Kanawha County announces his candidacy for delegate to the National Convention of the Democratic Party to be held at San Francesco. He has no candidate picked out, but proposes to go to the convention absolutely free and unpledged, in order that the delegates may consult together and pick a candidate who will carry the country. The Governor is a Democrat, and believes in vigorous, up to date democracy. He has been a figure in the conventions of the past, and if the voters of the party follow precedent he will go to San Francisco.

Capt. E. Meade Arbogast and Miss Priscilla Frances Sloane were maried February 23, 1920, at the home of the bride's father, 1220 Park Avenue, Indianapolis, Indiana. Miss Sloane will be remembered here, having visited her school friends, the Misses McClintic.

John A. Beverage died at his home near Cloverlick, Wednesday morning February 25, 1920, aged about 73 years. He had been in failing health for some months. He was a prominent citizen, widely known and highly respected. He is survived by his wife and their son, Harper Beverage

HUNTERSVILLE CHARGE

Methodist Church,

Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, Pastor.

The pastor will be at White Sulphur Springs this Sunday and expects to be absent from the work until the first Sunday.

GREENBANK

The Greenbank District High School closed Monday, February 16, on the account of the influenza epidemic in the community and will not reopen before Tuesday March 2nd.

The people of this community were shocked to hear of the death of Uriah Hevener which occurred at the Marlinton Hospital Sunday night February 22nd. With the death of Mr. Hevener the community looses one of its most prominent citizens.

There are several cases of "flu" in town some of which are, Mrs. L. H. Moomau, Misses Virginia Dare and Lucy Moomau, Mrs. J. L. Stretch, Mrs. James Stretch, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wooddell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wooddell and three children, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenburger and two children, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thompson and two children.

The teachers in the Greenbank High School went to their homes to spend a few days. We hope they will be fortunate enough to escape the flu and will be ready to take their places when the school reopens.

Mr. Joe Hammad expects to open a store in a short time. We welcome him to our town.

John Gum has bought the Darnell property in town.

Mrs. Jesse Fultz died at her home at Arboyale Saturday night, February 21, after an illness of a few days with influenza. She leaves a husband and five small children. We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family and friends.

Miss Glenna Gladwell was visiting her friend, Miss Ruth Warwick at at Cass one day last week.

Andy McCloud was in town today looking for milch cows.

U S. ARMY NEWS

Recruiting Party has arrivied in town for the purpose of obtaining Recruits for the U. S. Regular Army. Any young man desiring information about the army will kindly come to the Post Office or the Marlinton Hotel and talk it over with the Sergeants in town, they are William S. Neilson of the 41st Infantry, Camp Upton, N. Y., well known pugilist and Bernard S. Motkiruski an over-sea veteran formerly of the 3rd Division.

There were two young men obtained from Durbin, for Camp Upton, New York City, for the Recruit Educational center, Hubert Simmons and Irad Snyder.

Just received, an order from the War Department that one year enlistment for Engineers and Field Artillery are open to men without previous service, and given special assignment to any of the following Divisions from the First to the Seventh. So come and talk it over with the Sergeants at the Marlinton Hotel. The Party will be in town until the 29th of February, any previous service man who wishes information about his War Risk Insurance or allotments and want to obtain their Victory Buttons will be given the information from the Recruiting Sergeants at the Marlinton Hotel.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. W. D. Keehe, Pastor.

Sunday School promptly at 9:45.

The pastor will preach at the morning service on "Personal Religion and Family Religion"—As Jor me and my House." The sermons that are being preached in the Methodist pulpits of America from now until Easter are to be of a similar character—in keeping with the Evangelistic Drive that is now on Let the members of the church make a special effort to come out and hear these special messages and encourage the leaders by their presence and assisance

The union service will be held this fifth Sunday evening at the Methodist church, and Rev. F. P. Allen of the Presbyterian church is expected to present "World Conditions" through stereopticon slides. Let the members of both churches come out and fill the church, and help make these joint services what they should be. Mr. Allen has recently been elected busiuess manager of West Virginia Synod.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. J. M. Walker, Pastor.

Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.

At 11 a, m. Rev. F. P. Allen, the newly elected business manager of West Virginia Synod will preach. He comes to hs in the interest of the Presbyterian Progressive Program. Let every member be on hand.

It is expected at the Sunday night union services at the Methodist church that Mr Allen will present "World Conditions" through stereoptican slides. It will be a treat for us all.

Remember next Sunday morning is the set time for turning in "our self-Denial for Foreign Missions." The self denial offering of the Ladies Missionary society last week is a distinct challenge to the rest of the church membership to do their very utmost for this great Cause. Let us give until we are proud of our offering to Foreign Missions.

A. M. Tressel, Deputy Revenue Collector, will be at Marlinton on Friday, February 27, to assist any one in filing income tax reports.

Rev. L. B. Franck will preach at Clover Lick Sunday Feb. 29th at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. F. C. Allen returned on Wednesday from a trip to Baltimore and Washington. He reports a heavy snow in the East on Tuesday.

NEWS CULLINGS FROM WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston.—Inheritance taxes in the sum of $516.45 were collected by the state tax commissioner from the estate of John Thiel, late of Marshall county, and $284 from the estate of V. N. Jones, of Tyler county.

Wheeling.—Judge Robinson refused to sustain a demurrer interposed by attorneys for George P. Morris, indicted here in connection with the failure of the Home Builders' Union and the case was set for trial January 28 in Ohio county criminal court.

Charleston.—Thirty-two fatal and 2,000 non-fatal injuries to workmen in West Virginia industries were reported in December to the compensation department; 25 of the fatalities occurred in coal mining districts. The largest number of non-fatal injuries occurred in metal working industries, the total being 772.

Clarksburg.—Federal agents swooped down upon a counterfeiting den in the Glen Elk section of the city, arrested two men who were jailed and confiscated a complete counterfeiting outfit, which had been turning out spurious $5 and $1 bills. The identity of the prisoners is unknown and they refused to give their names.

Charleston.—A little girl, 11 years old, who has been at the Davis Child Shelter for sometime, was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank H Tyree, of Huntington. Mr. Tyree is a deputy state tax collector. He visited the shelter and was attracted by the little girl. He returned with Mrs. Tyree and they decided to take the child to their home in Huntington.

Martinsburg.—The West Virginia State Horticultural Society, upon opening its twenty-seventh annual meeting here, went on record as favoring the inspection of apples, peaches and other fruits grown in this state at their various points of shipment, as a means of relieving the growers of responsibility for the condition of such fruit when placed on the market.

Charleston.—An attempt by the police department to break up the practice of small boys in the east end and other sections of the city of stealing milk and fruit, etc., from refrigerators, was inaugurated and resulted in the arrest of Lee Stamper, who raided refrigerators in Arlington Court and Maple Terrace, and drew a 10-day jail sentence in Police Court.

Charleston.—Dr. E. D. Stephenson, president of the State Board of Control, announced the letting of contracts for beef or the various state institutions for the first three months of 1920 The average price paid was about two cents a pound above the contract price three months ago. The total amount of beef purchased was about 90,000 pounds, or 30,000 pounds a month.

Charleston.—Writ of error and supersedeas were granted by the Supreme Court of Appeals in the suit of Florence Helm versus the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company from Brooke county, the defendant being the petitioner. Damages were given the plaintiff in the Circuit Court because of an explosion in her home in February, 1918, after lighting a gas stove.

Williamson.—The powder magazine of the Randolph mine in the suburb of Williamsport blew up. James Childers, the mine foreman, who was near the magazine when it exploded, was killed and another employe was seriously hurt. The cause of the explosion has not been determined and the loss is said to be heavy. The explosion shook the town and windows were broken.

Charleston.—J. W. Alderson, 67, of Hinton, former member of the West Virginia Legislature, representing Summers county, was killed by being thrown from a horse. He had been on a mountain near Belleport reservoir, and returning home was thrown from his horse, and his skull fractured. He died shortly afterwards. He was a member of the Legislature from 1914 to 1916.

Charleston.—The first arrest for violation of the health ordinance since it was made known that the administration would no longer tolerate the keeping of hogs within the corporate limits of the city came when A. J. Holden who is said to be maintaining a number of porkers in sixth street, was taken on that charge. He appeared in police court and Judge W. W. Wertz placed the case on the open docket, pending the removal of the hogs from the city.

Charleston.—A fund of $5,000 for investment, the proceeds to be given annually to the student submitting the best treatise on a public question, has been donated to the West Virginia University by James F. Brown, of Charleston. Announcement of the gift came in a letter received by M. P. Shawkey, president of the State Board of Education, from Frank B. Trotter, president of the university. The subjects upon which the students will write will be specified by Mr. Brown and the university authorities will have charge of making the award.

Wheeling.—The jury in Circuit Court returned a verdict for the defendant, in the $1,500 suit styled Auto Funeral Service Company against Brice B. Sloan. It was alleged by the plaintiff that the defendant ran his automobile into one of their cars some time ago in the out-the-pike section, badly damaging the machine. The case was tried before Judge J. B. Somerville.

Wheeling.—It was announced at the Board of Education meeting by Robert H. McKee, the well-known and popular representative from Madison district, that Madison school is the largest in the state, having an enrollment of 1,040 students. Mr. McKee also incidentally stated that there were more than 10,000 books taken from the Wheeling Public Library by readers last month.

Charleston.—Dr. J. M. Williamson, treasurer of the State Board of Control, resigned his position on the board several months ago and does not seek reappointment, according to a statement made by Governor John J. Cornwell. His resignation is effective March 1. Dr. Williamson was formerly mayor of Moundsville, and was appointed by Governor Hatfield in 1913. His successor has not yet been named by the governor.

Charleston.—Attorney General E. T. England said that he and associate counsel will appear before the United States Supreme Court at Washington to present briefs and petitions in the two cases in which Pennsylvania and Ohio are to ask that the Steptoe law, passed by the West Virginia Legislature, requiring gas companies to furnish consumers in the state with gas before piping it outside, be declared unconstitutional.

Wheeling.—Health officers in a score of cities are searching for men who attended a meeting of railway trainmen in Baltimore recently, as the result of the discovery of several cases of small pox among the visitors. Dr. C. Hampson Jones, commissioner of health of Baltimore, has sent special delivery letters to the health officers of cities from which delegates came to the meeting. Parkersburg and Grafton were among them.

Morgantown. — Governor John J. Cornwell roundly scored the radical elements of the country here when he addressed one of the greatest crowds of farmers and towns people at commencement hall that this city has ever had. He made a stirring plea for the farmers of West Virginia and the country as a whole to realize that they can no longer merrily produce corn, oats and potatoes but that they are a vital part of the nation and that they must educate themselves in the problems of the day in order that they may intelligently carry on their work as balance wheels of our national machinery.

Charleston.—The total value of all high school property in West Virginia at the beginning of the present school year was $7,984,152, according to the annual report of L. L. Friend, state supervisor of high schools, this representing an increase of nearly $500,000 more than the previous year. The cost of maintaining these schools during the period was $5,182,472, of which $938,547 was expended in salaries to 1,015 teachers, of whom 334 were men and 681 women. The per capita cost of high school education in the state last year, based on a total enrollment of 16,168, was $73.13. Of the total enrollment 6,559 were boys and 9,609 girls.

Charleston.—Between $200,000 and $350,000 a day will be added to the cost of running the mines in Northern West Virginia alone, under the 14 per cent increase, according to figures compiled by the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators' Association. The increase, which sounds small, will entail a heavy expense on all operations which is not apparent at first. It means, it is estimated, that the additional expense to coal operators in Northern West Virginia alone, because of the fourteen per cent increase, will reach from $8,000,000 to $9,000,000 a year over and above present expenses, none of which can, of course, be added to the price of coal.

Morgantown.—Representatives of 38 counties of West Virginia voted here to affiliate the West Virginia Federation of Farm Bureau with the American Bureau Federation. The counties represented were: Brooke, Grant, Dodridge, Wood, Marshall, Lincoln, Summers, Webster, Pocahontas, Randolph, Kanawha, Hardy, Marion, Morgan, Braxton, Greenbrier, Ritchie, Monroe, Jackson, Taylor, Hampshire, Wayne, Mineral, Pleasants, Ohio, Roan, Jefferson, Barbour, Gilmer, Berkley, Upshur, Lewis, Putnam, Mercer, Raleigh, Monongalia, Harrison and Hancock. Six hundred farmers have been attending the Farmers' week meetings which closed here with an address by Governor John J. Cornwell.

Elkins.—A desperate attempt on the life of Coleman Stalnaker, a constable who has been very active in the enforcement of the prohibition laws, was made when a bomb or other high explosive was set off at the front door of his home on First street. The concussion was so severe that the front porch was wrecked, the plastering blown from the front rooms and almost every window in the house broken. All the windows in St. Brenden's Catholic school across the street were broken, as well as many in almost every house in the block.

IN MEMORIAM

Died at her home in Huntersville, February 17, 1920, Opal Jaunita McComb, eldest daughter of Ida B. and H. M. McComb, aged 22 yrs. 9 months and 7 days.

Opal lay sick for about three months before her death, so intense was her suffering and so vain the hopes of her recovery that the many anxious friends by the bedside were almost glad when her release came.

The passing away of Opal removes from our community one of its best and brightest young girls, she was not only loved by her parents but the bright face and her gentle nature had won the love of all who knew her, this was evidenced by the beautiful floral offerings and the number of friends who followed her weeping, to her last resting place.

Only those who have passed through similar bereavement can know how deep the shadows fall upon the house where she once lived,

Opal joined the Presbyterian Church when Mr. Rashall was pastor, being then quite young but she remained faithful unto the end. A touching incident was the little boys and girls of her Sunday School class who carried flowers as the last tribute of love and respect for their teacher.

Strange as it seems to me that a life so full of hope and promise should be cut off in the very beginning but the Loving Father doeth all things well.

May God's tender consolation and strengthening grace be daily found in the broken hearts and may her father, mother, brothers and sisters all be led by her hand to that home where Opal has gone.

Her Schoolmate,
Lucille Carey
